

recently given for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. Water tower, B. A. Bunker, W. H. Loomis, R. Morris, O. B. Wilmart, A. E. Tardant and members of gymnastics, Miss Josie Ewing, Mrs. F. Davis, Miss Maud Hughes, H. P. Papp, Capt. J. C. Boone and Company H. and R. A. Wilmart. We especially desire to thank Miss Josie Ewing, who was kindly filled the place of a person from illness, and Mrs. M. V. Adams, who worked so zealously in getting up the entertainment.

EMMA K. G. TAYLOR, Secretary.

Cheese and Quavers.
A concert for the benefit of Miss Carlotta Glazier, the well-known pianist, will be given in Hartman's recital hall tomorrow night. Below is the program:
Trio—Novellette, Op. 29.....Nicholas Gaid
Allegro Scherzando
Andantino con moto
Missa Glazier
Larghetto con moto
Finale
Miss Glazier and Mrs. Wynne and Knapp
Song—"Don't Know".....Rita H.
Miss Irma Haight
Piano—(a) Nocturne in G major.....Chopin
(b) Canzone da Camera.....Benedict
Missa Glazier
Songs—(a) "I Love Thee".....Grieg
(b) "Thou Art Mine All".....Brady
H. Parker Robinson
Piano—Serenade and Allegro giusto
Op. 8.....Mendelsch
Orchestral accompaniment on second piano
H. G. Post
Songs—(a) Look in My Heart and See
(b) If I But Knew.....Smith
(c) He Was a Prince.....Lynne
Missa Haight
Piano—Characteristich Polonaise
Op. 3.....Nicole
Miss Glazier

Mr. Campbell, Mr. Post and Mrs. Davis will assist at a complimentary concert to be tendered Mrs. Custer Calhoun, the retiring state librarian, by the members of the legislature at Lansing next Tuesday.

The students' recital, given by Messrs. Post, Force and Campbell, are becoming so popular that they contemplate engaging larger rooms, thus accommodating more friends and patrons.

The Easter music at St. Mark's church proved so acceptable that it will be repeated on next Sunday morning.

Francis Campbell will spend Wednesday and Thursday in Detroit.

Pupils' Musicals.
Charles W. Landon and James Padon will give a pupils' musicale at the residence of Julius Berkey, on Thursday evening next, April 13, when the following program will be performed:

(a) Kavalotti.....Wieniaski
(b) Mazurka.....Chopin
(c) Clarette.....Bergold
(d) Mosy Benks.....Gilbert
Miss Anna Hanaford and Dr. W. H. Rose
Au Matin.....B. Goidard
Miss Carrie Gould
Legende.....Wieniaski
Edenwald.....Ryan
The Star.....A. Forster
Miss Anna Hanaford and Mr. Ryan
Kamennostrov.....Rubinstein
Miss Rebecca H. Franta
The Arrow and the Song.....L. Kavanagh
Miss Hanaford and Mr. Ryan
Symphonie in G.....Ducula
Miss Lela Berkey and James Padon
(a) Andante.....Bethoven
(b) Norwegian Rhapsody.....Grieg
Miss Lucia Evelyn Burch
Of This.....Kummer
Dr. Rose
Le Carnaval de Venise.....Dance
Fantasia Brillante
James Padon, Clarence D. Pierce,
Edward F. Ryan and Clarence E. Reynolds

Coming Events.
The members of Watson Relief corps are preparing to give a merchants' carnival about April 16. Many of the business firms of the city will be represented by the costumes of the young women. There will also be a series of military evolutions by three different companies. Those will be under the management of Miss Anna Besancon, company A; Miss Nellie Johnson, company B; Miss Anna Weston, company C.

Members of Mrs. Griffith's Ten of the Fountain Street Baptist church will receive their friends on Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. J. Mowat, No. 34 Cherry street, from 7 to 10. Gentlemen are cordially invited to come and bring their wives, friends or sweethearts. Light refreshments will be served.

Local Pythians are looking forward to their banquet at the New Livingston on Wednesday evening. Grand Chancellor Loomis will be the toastmaster and F. M. Utley and C. E. Luzzee have arranged the program. Tickets were sold by members of each of the five lodges, and there will be a full attendance and a jolly evening.

Max O. A. Kiel, of No. 28 Home avenue, will leave for Chicago in a few days. She was one of the thirteen chosen from among the many applicants for positions in the spectacular chorus at the world's fair.

The "Temple of Fame," given at the South congregation church some time ago, will be repeated at Hartman's hall next week under the same management, but for the benefit of the Woman's home and hospital.

An apron sale will be held on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, April 25, at the residence of Mrs. F. C. Stratton, No. 152 Lagrange street. Supper will also be served from 7 to 8 o'clock. Proceeds for Grace church.

Miss Belle Thorsington will leave Monday morning for Grand Junction, where she will give a reading for the benefit of the Methodist church there. Miss Thorsington is a pupil of Mrs. Beaudy's.

Grand Rapids Relief corps will give an entertainment in Pettie hall, corner Quincy street and Plainfield avenue, April 14. The women will dispose of their carpet the same evening.

The Calvary Baptist Sunday school will give the concert, known as "Gates Ajar," in the church, corner of Sixth avenue and Ionia street, this evening. Everybody invited.

The Ladies' guild of Trinity church will give a social at the home of Mrs. E. Fletcher, No. 40 Clancy street, on the evening of April 13. A fine program will be rendered.

The Grand Castle Knights of Golden Eagle will hold its session in Detroit April 11-12. A delegation from the various local chapters will leave for there tomorrow night.

The regular meeting of the Political Equality club will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Margaret Deery, No. 17 West Bridge street, next Wednesday, at 8 o'clock.

The Ancient Egyptian order will give an entertainment and pedro party in the hall in the Tower block on Friday evening, April 14. Everybody invited.

Punimaker chapter, order of the Elks, will give a dance and pedro party in the hall in the McCullen block Tuesday evening, April 11.

Mrs. E. R. Carpenter will give, soon, a social musicale for Miss Edna Yale, who goes to Chicago and will be absent about four months.

A reception will be given by Mrs.

William Winger and Miss Alice Tinkham at the Winger home on April 11 from 3 to 6 o'clock.

The board of directors of the Country club will give a dinner at the club house tomorrow night.

The St. Cecilia French class will meet at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the Ladies' Literary club house.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Mosely of Cherry street will give a large card party in about two weeks.

The Independent Social club will give a benefit ball for the Bents children on Thursday night.

A children's carnival will be given by Miss Annie Wilcox's dancing class on Friday night.

The Marguerite club will give a hop at Custer armory Wednesday evening.

Other Events.
Eureka Lodge, K. of P., entertained its women, friends in the lodge room on Thursday night. Miss Alice Raymond and Miss Maud Jeffries gave recitations in their usual pleasing manner. There was also singing by the Webster quartet, piano solo by Prof. Wilmart, violin solo by Prof. Papp. Ice cream and cake and social chat closed the festivities.

On Thursday evening Eber Rice celebrated his fiftieth birthday by entertaining about fifty of his old friends and acquaintances. Music, cards and general sociability were enjoyed. Mr. Rice received many handsome gifts, although his cards of invitation bore the legend, "No presents."

The many friends of Louis Graveson of South Front street, remembered his forty-fifth birthday by giving him an old-fashioned surprise party. The evening passed with cards, music, dancing, feasting and the bestowal of presents to the host.

The uniform ball given by the Macabees in their hall on Pearl street, on Thursday night, was attended by about fifty couples. The gay uniforms added much to the pleasure of the occasion.

A surprise party was given Friday evening to Oswald Fietag at No. 104 Livingston street. Cards, dancing, etc., were enjoyed. About thirty guests were present.

On Thursday evening the ladies of the Park congregation church gave a reception to the Rev. and Mrs. Dan F. Bradley in the church parlors.

A missionary tea was held at Mrs. Samuel Morrison's home on Friday night. Miss Alice Taylor and others gave excellent recitations.

The Baby Pedro club was entertained on Wednesday evening by Miss Calkins at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Herker.

The Practical Y's met with Mrs. A. Elston, No. 129 South Front street, on Wednesday evening.

Franklin Lodge, A. O. U. W., gave a banquet after its regular meeting on Thursday evening.

Miss Clara Vanhooven of Seventh avenue gave a party to her many friends on Monday evening.

Patriarchal circle gave a dancing party on Wednesday evening at the hall, No. 52 Lyon street.

The journeyman housewives gave a dance on Wednesday night at Simmon's hall.

In the City.
Mrs. M. Willis and daughter of Seaforth, Ontario, who are on their way to Vancouver, British Columbia, are spending a few days with Mrs. Willis' daughter, Mrs. Capt. R. H. Hulbert of No. 72 Coit avenue.

Miss Kate M. Dunn, who has been spending the winter in Santa Fe, New Mexico, has returned home. She reports her sister, Miss Anna, much improved in health.

S. B. McCracken, widely known as historian and compiler, is in the city writing up for the world's fair the water power of this city.

Mrs. Kate H. Johnson and daughter of Philadelphia are visiting Mrs. Johnson's sister, Mrs. J. G. Read, No. 77 Henry street.

Miss May Butler, a teacher in the schools of Grand Haven is in the city the guest of her sister, Miss Blanche Butler.

Miss Maud Dunks of Lookout Mountain, Tennessee, is visiting her father, H. Dunks, and her uncle, J. H. McCrath.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinsey of No. 31 Charles street are entertaining Mrs. C. H. Fuller and daughter, Bernice, of Shelby.

Willard Barnhart has returned from his winter in southern California. His family will return about May 1.

Miss Lillian Whitmore of Allegan is the guest of her cousin, C. E. Mercer, No. 95 Lafayette street.

Mrs. E. W. Johnston and Mrs. R. G. Matthews have returned from their winter's sojourn in Florida.

Mrs. Eleanor Macreary of No. 171 South Prospect street has returned from her visit to Illinois.

Charles Weiside has returned from his visit to Waukegan, Wisconsin, in search of health.

Miss Marshal of Jefferson avenue is entertaining her sister, Miss Naw Marshal of Detroit.

Miss Calla Travis of Akeley institute, Grand Haven, is visiting her parents in this city.

Dr. J. Orton Edie is entertaining his daughter, Mrs. Fred Baker, of Menominee for Grace church.

John A. Hookmaker and wife started yesterday on a trip to Chicago, Milwaukee and other cities. Mr. Hookmaker expects to place one of the soda water preparations he represents for use at the world's fair.

Mrs. M. W. Marshall of Cherry street has gone to Detroit to visit her mother. She is accompanied by her daughter, Kathleen.

Mrs. and Mrs. C. G. Bickle and son of No. 111 Clinton street have gone to Ft. Wayne, Indiana, to visit Mrs. A. G. Schist.

Miss Mary E. Berkley has gone to Chicago, en route for her home in Winfield, Kansas, where she will spend the summer.

Mrs. Dan Eyer and daughter, Mrs. C. D. Van den Berge, have gone to Salt Lake City for a month's visit.

Mrs. John G. Skobek left yesterday for Chicago to attend Palewsky's recital.

Mrs. H. A. Lamos and Mrs. J. S. Hawkins are visiting friends in Chicago.

Mrs. G. R. Henderson and daughter Grace have gone to Syracuse, N. Y.

A. I. Hattin has gone to Portland, Oregon, to visit his son, Edward.

Miss Gertrude Rieley and Miss Florence Chase are in Muskegon.

A. Almqvist has gone to Jackson ville, Florida, being called there by the sudden and serious illness of his wife.

M. C. Vyn, formerly of the O. & W. M. office, has gone to Chicago as stenographer for Martin & Sullivan.

Miss Flora Trowbridge has gone to Trowbridge to visit friends.

Mrs. E. M. Coppens is spending a few days in Grand Haven.

Mrs. George F. Sinclair is taking an eastern trip.

H. E. Walbridge has gone to Denver.

Personal Notes.
G. Vos, Ph. D., of the Madison Avenue theological seminary of Holland, has been visiting in Cincinnati during the past week. He has for the second time been tendered the chair of Biblical theology in Princeton seminary.

Stuart Davis has resigned his position in the eating room of the union depot. W. M. Taylor succeeds him. Mr. Davis will go to Colorado.

Miss Annie Pollard has been to Ann Arbor to visit the Misses Hattie and Della Baily, who are students at the university.

Miss Lydia Newcomb will address the physical culture class taught by Miss Elliott on next Monday evening.

Miss Eliza Wilson will graduate in high standing from Mrs. Marie Wilson Beasley's school of education.

Ed McHugh, No. 358 Fourth street, was struck by an electric car on Tuesday evening and badly bruised.

Mrs. L. W. Teast spent the past week in Allegan, Battle Creek and Detroit, in the kindergarten work.

Mrs. A. L. Beebe of Big Rapids has been visiting her friend, Mrs. E. Powers of No. 50 Kellogg street.

Mrs. A. H. Larezon of No. 22 Hecadene avenue sprained her ankle last Tuesday.

Ill health has caused Miss Frances Compton to give up her school of education.

Miss Edith, daughter of F. C. Hawkins, is seriously ill with pneumonia.

D. A. Blodgett is expected home from Florida about the middle of April.

George Clapperton is seriously ill with inflammation of the bowels.

Millie Penance.
Successor to Mrs. M. A. Mett, Facial Artist, room 6 The Irving. Wrinkles and all blemishes of the skin removed permanently by an improved method, without injury. Ladies calling on Monday, April 9, between 9 and 12 a. m., and 2 and 5 p. m., will be given one treatment free.

Miss Zella Field has removed her dressmaking parlors from 574 Ottawa street to 13 South Division street.

SHE IS UNDER OATH

Fielding Prepares Maud to Be a Witness in a Civil Suit.

IS ALMOST TOO SUCCESSFUL

He Loses His Case With a Recommendation to Mercy—Maud Objects to Reference to Her Age.

"Maude," said I, "can you tell the truth?"
"Oh, you want me to be a witness in that suit," she exclaimed. "I think it will be real fun. But I haven't a thing to wear. If it should be a nice, pleasant day I might wear my—"

"Never mind your clothes," said I. "Wear something that will wash. If you're to spend a day in a New York courtroom. That's all you need to think about. But what do you know about the case?"

"I know all about it," she cried. "You're suing Mr. Ruggles for building a horrible old factory right in our back yard. You want ten thousand dollars out of him, but you said that you'd be lucky if you got half of it. You said that, anyway, it would be all clear gain, except what those sharks, your counsel, extorted from you, and that you'd blow it all in taking me to Europe, and after your creditors could go sit on a double-pointed carpet tack—"

"By all means," said I; "tell that to the jury, and it won't be necessary to call any other witnesses."

"I remembered it just as you said it," she cried, triumphantly, "even your very words."

"Well, then, forget it just as fast as you can."

"Howdy," said I, "you're got to be a witness in this case. I'd rather have ten good liars on the other side, but it can't be helped. You must tell a perfectly straight story, and preserve, throughout, the inhuman calmness of a fashion plate."

"I can do it, howdy," she protested. "You don't know what you will have to undergo," said I. "Let me give you an idea of a scene in court. Imagine an atmosphere of stale injustice which settles down greasily on judge and jury, on the witnesses, the spectators and the furniture, like a layer of bad butter on a piece of moldy bread. As soon as you get inside the building you will notice a lot of men with evil in their eyes. Some of them will be lawyers and others will be clients, but they will have been so long in another's society that you will not be able to tell the just from the unjust, if any of the former happens to be present."

"Now, imagine what Mr. Ruggles might have been without those refining influences which have differentiated him in a small degree from the gorillas to whom Mr. Darwin would very justly trace Mr. Ruggles' family line. Imagine this creature freed from all legal and moral restraints, and you will have a fair idea of the lawyer who will cross-examine you in the interests of the defendant."

"I don't care two cents for him," said Maude. "I'd like to see him make me say what I didn't want to say."

"Well, I shouldn't, for if once you got started the effect produced upon the jury would be exceedingly painful. To guard against such an accident I intend to put you through a form of cross-examination this evening. I will personate the lawyer and will ask such questions as you will have to face when he gets after you."

"Very well," said Maude. "Let's see if you can mix me up. You can't get a single bit, and I'm perfectly sure of it. I brought a chair for her out of the kitchen. It is a wooden chair with six broken legs. So the back of any person who sits in it for fifteen minutes."

Maude took this chair, under protest, and I seated myself comfortably before her, and questioned her calmly about the leading facts of our grievance against Mr. Ruggles. She got along very well.

"You're not disagreeable a bit," said she. "You haven't been so nice as this since 1887."

"Wait a minute," said I. "I am now personating your lawyer who will extract the first story. Afterwards the other fellow will take you in hand and

"Let's see if you can mix me up," make you contradict all your previous statements, to say nothing of mine. Now we will begin the cross-examination."

"Now," I continued, "think of the most disagreeable man you ever saw."

"Ruggles," said Maude without a moment's hesitation.

I arose from my chair, and coming up close to Maude, I shook my forefinger violently in her face.

"Mrs. Fielding—," I began.

"Why do you say Fielding?"

"I beg your pardon, Mrs. Fielding."

"Howdy, you make me nervous. I hate to have anybody call me by a wrong name."

"Mrs. Fielding, you will confine yourself to answering my questions. When were you born?"

"May 30, 1887."

"You look much older, but—"

know that you were born on May 30, 1887?"

"Sixty-eight."

"Didn't you just testify," I roared, shaking my finger within half an inch of her nose, "that you were born on June 30, 1887?"

"Of course I did. No I didn't, either. I said—"

"Never mind what you said," I yelled. "You have just contradicted yourself in a single sentence."

"But you said June, and—"

"Never mind what I said. Your conscience, ma'am, should have enough to do in looking out for what you yourself say. Proceed, then; how do you know that you were born on that day?"

"Why, of course I was. Don't you suppose I know?"

"I suppose nothing, madam; I am after the facts. Do you know, of your own personal knowledge, that you were born on May 30, 1887?"

"Certainly. Why my father and mother—"

"I have nothing to do with the birth of your father and mother," I howled. "Did you make a note of the date?"

"No, of course not. How—"

"Do you mean to tell this court that you were present on an occasion of so much importance to yourself—one which might affect your whole future life—and made no note of the date?"

"Whoever heard of anything so perfectly absurd? How in the world—"

"I am not here, madam, to answer your questions," I thundered. "You have sworn that of your own personal knowledge you know that you were born on May 30, 1887. Now are you sure of that as of the other facts to which you have testified?"

"Well, I should hope so!"

"Then everything that you have told the jury has been a matter of hearsay?"

"Of course not. Don't you suppose I saw—"

"Can you swear that you saw the date May 30, 1887, on any newspaper, calendar, or other document on the day you were born?"

"No, you idiot!"

"Then you have nothing better than somebody's word for the fact that that was the actual day?"

"Of course not."

"Then," I shouted in a six-line plea Italian voice, waving my finger like the sail of a windmill, "how dare you swear that you knew of your own knowledge?"

"Howdy, if you ask me another question about that, I'll throw something at you. I think you're real mean."

"Never mind, ma'am," said I, "at least you claim to know that Jeremiah Ruggles erected that beautiful structure adjoining your premises in the spring of 1897?"

"Of course he did."

"But your husband has just testified that it was in the spring of 1890."

"Good gracious! was it, howdy? Oh, dear me. Didn't I say 1897? I'm sure that I did. Of course I did—in the spring of 1890."

"But you said in your previous examination that it was the spring of 1897. I said this in a tone of glowing triumph, as if I had made Maude contradict herself, and was determined never to let her hear the last of it. I knew she couldn't stand that."

"I don't care a bit," she cried. "You're perfectly unbearable. I prefer Mr. Ruggles and I hope he'll win. I don't want to go to Europe. I don't want any clothes—boo—oo—oo!"

My experiment had floundered with even darker distrust of Maude as a witness. On the day of the trial I shook in my shoes.

SPRING TIME AGAIN.

Some Seasonable Words of Advice by Dr. Copeland.

The Many Changes in Temperature Are Dangerous to Health—A Neglected Cold May Prove Serious.

Spring comes early with us this year, and it brings many a grateful sigh that now we may hope that the rigors of the severe winter have passed; yet the air is cold and raw—April sunshine is quickly and viciously succeeded by wintry storms. Cold, chilly rains and sudden changes of temperature conspire to our discomfort. Nearly every one has a "cold," and a neglected "cold" will develop and aggravate seeds of disease which already sown in your system. Colds are allowed to fester, rather than being promptly treated by study and experience. If you get a cold, see that the "cold" first comes, they cure you in a very short time, and the cost is nothing at all; if you allow the "cold" but a little time it will develop disease that will impair you physically and mentally, and cause much future misery.

There is no disease that is apparently so trifling, in reality so dangerous and so easily cured as a cold. It begins with a cold in the head, and sooner than is expected the air passages and lungs are affected. The special senses—sight, taste, smell, etc.—are impaired. It begins with a cold in the head, and sooner than is expected the air passages and lungs are affected. The special senses—sight, taste, smell, etc.—are impaired. It begins with a cold in the head, and sooner than is expected the air passages and lungs are affected. The special senses—sight, taste, smell, etc.—are impaired.

Finally I determined to try Dr. Copeland and Graham. I knew that many people had an idea that they could not do what their patients claimed they were doing, but I wanted to tell the public, as I have told my friends, that the idea is wrong. Under their treatment all my distressing symptoms have disappeared and I feel as well as ever I did. These physicians have cured me, and I feel that I cannot say enough in praise of their skill and their methods of treatment.

The treatment is pleasant and absolutely painless, and leaves the patient refreshed rather than exhausted.

"They know their profession."

CAUSE OF NEURALGIC HEADACHES

So Plainly Explained by Dr. Copeland That All Can Fully Understand.

"But pain is perfect misery, the worst of evils and excessive pain is a torment."

Why is it so many people have neuralgic headaches?

This question has been asked Dr. Copeland not less than 500 times in his office during the past two weeks.

"Why is it, doctor, that I suffer so intensely from these neuralgic headaches?"

The term "neuralgia" is usually applied to chronic inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the nose and throat. The inflammation does not stop there, however, by any means. It attacks every mucous membrane of the body—head, throat, lungs, stomach, bowels, bladder, etc. The frontal sinuses—or cavities in the upper front part of the head—are connected with the nasal cavities by small openings, and through these the catarrhal inflammation extends into the upper cavities until all are involved and the inclement season and cold winds so aggravate this trouble as to cause intense pain, and it radiates from this center out over the nervous system, causing this so-called neuralgia. Have the catarrhal inflammation cured and the neuralgia ceases.

Our system of mail treatment by means of symptom blank and correspondence is as perfect and effective as our office work. The charge is the same—$5 a month, covering everything, including medicines. Write for symptom blank to Dr. Copeland and Graham, 192 East Fulton street, Grand Rapids, Mich.